

Understanding

No two days are the same. Sometimes things happen which require us to find a solution that works for everyone and the business.

The video gives one example. What other things might need some flexibility in the workplace?

Things come up that may affect your work – what should you do?

Apprentices and supervisors from the automotive industry shared their ideas after watching this video:

"A bit of give and take goes a long way and enhances a winning culture."

"I know if I have an appointment in work hours to give plenty of notice so the managers know that I will be absent for the given times, and they can work more efficiently."

"(I will) give plenty of notice and offer ways to pick up any slack."
